

From Scott Hodgson, Associate Professor in the OU Journalism Department:

Instead of reading, I would like the students to watch a TV drama or sitcom and ask themselves a few questions:

1. What is the writer trying to say about how to handle crisis or conflict
2. What worldviews are presented by the program?
3. What would God say if he were placed in the middle of the show as a participating character?